(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Charlottesville, Va., January 19.—
Father Thomas A. Emmet, faculty director of athletics at Georgetown University, spent yesterday at the University of Virginia as the guest of Dr. Albert Lefevre. In the afternoon he met the members of the Virginia faculty committee on athletics for the purpose of discussing the proposed changes in the athletic code between the two institutions. Exactly what transpired at the conference was not given out, but it is understood that in order to avoid any delay it was agreed that the football managers of the two universities be permitted to arrange the usual game for next fall. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Wake Forest, N. C., January 19.—
Using every man in the basketball squad, Wake Forest overwhelmed the team from High Point to night by a score of 72 to 9. The gams was interesting only in the fact that geveral of the Wake Forest subs worked that had never before been in the game, some good material showing up. The entire varsity worked in great style with lightning speed, which will surely bring results in the big game of the season to-merrow night against A. and M. in Raleigh. Captain Beam's work for the Eaptists has never been surpassed. Playing only in the first twelve minutes of the game, he threw ten field goals. McCutcheon, who relieved him, followed with ten more. Farlow, for the visitors, was the only one of his teammates who get two field goals. Carrick, an old Wake Forest star, played good ball.

The purpose is the instruction of youth in the nature of government and the duties and responsibilities of cilizenship. It is difficult to imagine a valid objection to this measure. The schoolboy of to-day is the voter of to-morrow, and may be an officeholder the day after. Few are aware of the astounding ignorance that exists among a large proportion of our voters regarding the structure of our State and national governments and the functions of their various departments. This is due to a failure to instruct them in early life, and the information in later years comes slowly and painfully, if at all.

The machinery of government is necessarily complex. It is thoroughly understands the jurisdiction of the courts unless he has acquired the painful experience of the litigant? When the broader questions of governmental policy are considered the masses know how easy it is for issues to be confused and misunderstood and how startling are some of the notions which he is likely to find prevailing. Thus it is that progress often halts and political tides ever ebb and flow. They have no rest.

All politicians—and a few states—mentally complex. It is the progress of the suddent and the theorist. As in practical matter, it is not generally in evidence. Any schoolboy can be taught its rudiments. When the women have stood by only a fraction of the elec-

A bill suggested by the State Corporation Commission was offered yesterday in the House by Colonel John S. Harwood. The present law makes a license fee of $600 on $1,000,000 corporations, while a corporation with $299,000 capital stock pays only $192.50. The new bill would make a graduated tax, not reaching $600 until a total of $3,000,000 is required.

He would he ve all goods placed in cold storage stamped with the date, and the date also placed there when it leaves the place. them in early life, and the information in later years comes slowly and painfully, if at all. The machinery of government is necessarily complex. It is thoroughly understood by comparatively few. Even so almple a matter as the progress of a bill through the Legislature is understood by only a fraction of the electorate. Many think it goes through with a whoop, like a vote of thanks at a church meeting. To tell these parties that it must go to one, or maybe two, committees of the house in which it is introduced, be reported to that house, go on the calendar, be read three times and voted upon, afterward running the same gamut in the other house, and perhaps come back to the first house with amendments which it may be necessary to adjust by a conference—this would astonish them beyond measure. How many people really know all of the powers and duties of the various officers of the State and the mode in which they are compensated? Many eltizens of the Ninth District were about the Capitol yesterday, on one sort of business or another. Naturally, the matter of redistricting is a very live one with them. It is provided in Mr. Bowman's soill that Smyth county should be taken from the Ninth and put in the Fifth, and Craig from the Tenth and put in the Fifth, and Craig from the Tenth and put in the Ninth. This would make but little change in the population, the Ninth having now 60. Perhaps the most general impression is that Glies, Bland and Tazewoli will be taken from the Ninth and put in the Sixth. This would change the facts, pleasings and arguments in each case, so as to make it that Glies, Bland and Tazewoli will be taken from the Ninth and put in the Sixth. This would change the political condition but slightly, although the Democrates would probably have the advantage by such action to the extent of about $60 votes.
